Konrad Krebs is an experienced litigator with significant experience representing major insurance carriers, sophisticated companies, and corporate officers in complex business and commercial insurance litigation. Konrad represents insurers in complex coverage litigation and disputes under all types of policies, including directors & officers, errors and omissions, employers' liability, professional liability, excess, commercial general liability, cyber, and first-party policies. Konrad is frequently asked to handle insurers' most pressing cases involving emerging issues, including lawsuits involving coverage for data privacy issues and ongoing COVID-19 claims. Konrad also represents corporate clients and corporate officers in high-stakes litigation arising out of mergers and acquisitions, contractual breaches, commercial real estate, intellectual property, and unfair trade practices claims.

Konrad has secured successful outcomes for clients in state and federal courts throughout the country. In addition to his dynamic litigation practice, Konrad is routinely called upon to advise clients and provide coverage opinions on complex insurance issues.

Konrad also represents clients with interested stakes in impact litigation, drafting and submitting amicus curiae briefs, including in the United States Supreme Court.

Prior to entering private practice, Konrad served as a judicial law clerk for the Hon. Paul Innes, Presiding Judge of the Chancery Division of the New Jersey Superior Court in Trenton, New Jersey.
