Steve Tull is an associate in the Subrogation Department, focusing on a variety of residential and commercial property losses resulting from fire, water damage, structural collapses and explosions. He advises clients in a wide range of subrogation matters involving explosions, structural damage, construction defects, products liability and other catastrophic failures.

During law school, Steve worked as a full-time law clerk in the Subrogation Department at White and Williams. Steve also had the opportunity to work with numerous pro bono clients in a variety of cases with the Homeless Advocacy Project and Philadelphia VIP.

While attending high school and college, Steve obtained experience in the field of construction while working for a builder. This experience gives him a familiarity and unique perspective in handling construction-related losses and claims against contractors and subcontractors.

Recognition & Involvement

While attending Temple Law, Steve participated in the Trial Advocacy Program, receiving awards such as Outstanding Oral Advocacy, as well as the Certificate in Trial Advocacy upon completion of the program.
