

White and Williams Counsels Client Through Several Investments

October 20, 2017

A team of White and Williams lawyers represented the strategic investment arm of a life and disability insurer in connection with several investments, including investment in a special purpose acquisition vehicle which acquired a controlling interest in a provider of trade credit risk management technology solutions and a Series C preferred equity round for a co-working space company. In both deals, the team consisted of Lori Smith, Joshua Galante, Michael Psathas and John Eagan.

In addition, the team of Lori Smith, Randy Friedberg, Joshua Galante, Michael Psathas and John Eagan assisted the client in providing a secured, tranching bridge loan to a SaaS-based technology company delivering online and mobile interactive health management platforms.
