Associate Vince Barbera has been recognized by the Philadelphia Business Journal (PBJ) as a young lawyer making an impact on the legal industry in Greater Philadelphia. He was among 25 millennials chosen based on PBJ institutional knowledge and from recommendations by the PBJ network of news sources in the legal community.

Vince represents businesses of all sizes and pursuits, as well as individuals, in the litigation of commercial and business disputes in court and through arbitration. In the PBJ article, he notes the lineage of lawyers in his family that inspired him to pursue a legal career and discusses challenges facing young lawyers today.
