

White and Williams Offices Donate Supplies to Adopted Schools

9.6.19

During the month of August, White and Williams' Lehigh Valley, Philadelphia and Wilmington offices collected supplies to support its respective adopted schools. In the weeks leading up to the first day back at school, lawyers and staff generously donated supplies ranging from writing utensils and paper to calculators and notepads, as well as classroom supplies.

Collecting school supplies is just one way the firm has partnered with their adopted schools. White and Williams launched its Adopt-a-School initiative in 2012 as a way to give back to the community, invest in education, and provide a unique opportunity for lawyers and staff to engage through the investment of time, finances and resources. Throughout the last school year, the firm donated schoolyard equipment and toys, participated in a career day presentation and collected nearly 2,000 donated books.